
Core Lessons

Posted by cklapka - 2009/03/27 22:39

There are 8 Core Level and ~8 Lessons per core Level. I was wondering how long one should normally take per level. I know everyone is different, however, if this was a live lesson how long would you take between intraCore lessons?

For example:

Open Chord Lesson 1 at one teaching session and send a student home expecting the next time they had practiced that.

or would you:

Open Chord Lesson 1 and 2 at one teaching session and send a student home expecting the next time they had practiced that.

Just wondering how long I should try and spend on an area before moving on. Obviously, I would not necessarily "master" before moving on but once I was confident in the material.

-Colin

=====

Re:Core Lessons

Posted by neef68 - 2009/04/27 09:05

I'm new myself. I don't know if it says it on all of the lessons but, in the first lesson it says that you should practice you first Major chords for the first week of practice. Then move on the the second group the next week. I'm guessing that each lessons is supposed to give you enough material for one week. Each week you learn something new while incorporating what you studied in previous lessons. That's the pace I plan to use. Hope that helped.

=====

Re:Core Lessons

Posted by rick - 2009/05/06 05:23

Hey Guys,

Yeah definitely... The lessons are set to move from one to the next after we get you started, but we can readjust and discuss your progress at anytime :)

So feel free to message one of us or use the support chat when needed...

Rock on

Rick

=====